

WHERE'D YOU GET THAT CAMERA?

the rain doesn't stop it's been months now that same constant pinging on the roof—doesn't get that heavy just doesn't stop & you're in the doorway recording it not speaking just recording these apologies i've flung between keep losing their heft there's not much else to do other than apologize & record the rain well we could rehash all the ways we pressed each other into stasis & talk about what backsliding means to us you were never good with bibles i was never good at saying what i mean you want the truth on our couch you want me to unsnare the story this is a yes or no question answer it you know the answer so speak up
